SOUND OFF

729-4006

Sound Off 729-4006 is your personal forum and squawk box. We broadcast your comments on most any subject. To sound your voice, please call 729-4006 after 5 p.m. on weekdays and anytime over the weekend. Or leave a message at our new website at www.micomnews.com. A word to the wise: you must not speak ill of your fellow citizens. Be brief. Be interesting. Otherwise we may edit you.

Wayne Democratic Club cannot squirrel away government cheese

My name is Barry Bauman, I am the department supervisor for the county office of nutrition program. I'm responding to the accusations made in Sound Off on Sunday, March 28, regarding the distribution of government cheese -- the operation by the Metro Wayne Democratic Club.

While it is not my intention to get mixed up in an apparent political vendetta, the seriousness of the accusations that were made in this call need to be responded to.

First of all, I would like to state that the untrue accusations made against Metro Wayne can be proven by the fact that we have not distributed cheese in this program since the late 1980s. Our program is not eligible under USDA guidelines to receive cheese.

So the statement that the person said that they have seen left-over government cheese in a refrigerator somewhere is a blatant falsehood.

Also, as the supervisor of the program, I make personal inspections of the site on distribution day throughout the year. I would like to state unequivocally, that Metro Wayne Democratic Club is complying with all USDA and state of Michigan guidelines. And I have found no violations at any time in complying with these guidelines and policies.

Furthermore, I would like to say that it is unfortunate that this newspaper, although most of the people involved in Michigan Community News know who I am and my position, were not checked first for the accuracies of these accusations before printing such blatant falsehoods. Not only does this reflect on Metro Wayne, but it reflects on our program. We have records from the time that it was taken over by Wayne County in 1993 that can verify the statements that I have made. Metro Wayne ought to be commended for their volunteer time and donating their own money to do a valuable service to low income people and seniors in the city of Wayne. They have done this for many years and their program is in compliance with USDA and state of Michigan services.

Retired fireman seeking seat on school board...

The race to succeed retiring Romulus School Board President Howard Kesner has begun with the filing of the first candidate -- Billy McCraight -- in the City Clerk's office last week.

McCraight, 61, lists himself as a former truck driver and city volunteer fireman, and vows he will begin knocking on voters' doors soon to get their endorsements.

As of Tuesday there reportedly were no other trustee petitions taken out here.

Potential candidates have until April 12 to pull and return signed petitions for the June 14 school board election.

Kesner revealed earlier this year he was stepping down after three terms on the board.

McCraight -- who is the father of three and the grandfather of five -- feels he could add a lot to the school board because he is a good listener, good communicator and an independent thinker.

In the past, the trustee candidate said he has served as an E-5 in the U.S. Army, Boy Scout leader and hockey coach for both boys and girls.

More recently he has joined the Romulus Rotary Club and the Romulus Pumpkin Festival Committee.

As to why he is seeking election, McCraight feels Romulus has been good to his family and now it is "payback time." He is willing to devote four years to that repayment plan.

McCraight supports the current efforts by the city and school district on building a city pool, but has reservations on a new recreation facility.

He still has some questions on how current recreational facilities are being used.

The next school board that begins in July will consider past requests on televising the school board meetings, possibly changing the meeting date of Romulus School Board meetings (since they currently meet at the identical time as the City Council) and the expected retirement of Superintendent Dr. William Bedell.

Another key issue will be the settling of the lack of a current contract for the school teachers.

While Kesner ran unopposed for the single seat in the past, it is expected and hoped that other candidates will also file in coming days so that the dialogue on the school district's future will be accentuated.

Post Office clerk to retire Friday

Loretta Gregg, who has spent the last 30 years helping Romulus residents with their assorted mail delivery needs, will be retiring tomorrow to bottle feed young calves and grow a major family garden.

"People laugh when they hear my plans," Loretta (currently the P.O.'s head clerk) said, "but I'm looking forward to bottle feeding that first calf."

After serving local residents and business leaders for three decades, Loretta said it is "those day-to-day personal experiences I will miss the most."

Loretta said "I'm now working on my second and third generations of customers here and pretty much know what they need before they even ask."

Silvia Rossier will become the new head clerk on Monday and a Belleville P.O. employee (Sharon Bokor) will be transferring to the Romulus P.O.

Laura Stafford will continue as clerk at the local P.O., Loretta said.

"It's been a good place to work," Loretta explained, "and was even greater fun when the mail sorting was actually done here."

About 20 years ago a Post Office consolidation move, switched most mail sorting and delivery processes to Taylor.

More recently (about six years ago) Loretta and her husband James (Blaine) sold their Romulus home because of Detroit Metro Airport expansion and relocated to Sumpter Township.

EDS caps early well, gets permits to drill others

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

More than a three year wait following an agreement by Environmental Disposal Systems Inc to purchase property for a hazardous waste storage and deepwell disposal facility on Citrin drive in Romulus, was climaxed earlier this week as well drilling permits were extended to EDS by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

Earlier it was announced that EDS has scheduled a pre-

EDS plans to provide details on the facility and its operation, describe truck routes and wastewater types it will handle.

City hall, court will close Friday

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Romulus City Hall and the 34th District Court will be closed tomorrow in honor of the Christian holiday Good Friday.

Both buildings will re-open on Monday -- the day after Easter on schedule.

In the mean time, local Christians will gather outside the Romulus Wesleyan Church near 5 Points to begin a mile long procession at noon Friday.

The Christian and Lenten hymn singing group will proceed down Goddard road to Romulus Historical Park, where seven local pastors will conduct a Good Friday service.

application Public Information Meeting for 7 p.m. April 12 at the Courtyard Hotel, 30653 Flynn drive to provide details on their deepwell plans.

The public is invited to the meeting.

According to their public notice, EDS plans to provide details on the facility and its operation, describe truck routes and wastewater types it will handle.

EDS officials also will "describe the nature of the permitting process under Act 451, Part III" and answer questions about the planned facility.

This week's announcements are serving as a prelude to the expected opening of such deepwells on Citrin drive in the next year or so.

The drilling permits call for two 4,500 foot deep wells to be dug, but that "no disposal may take place until the well is tested and approved for disposal pursuant to Rule 299.2262."

The controversial well project ripped through Romulus political and social circles earlier this decade -- following EDS' announced plans back in 1990.

Originally EDS had planned to construct the well project on Wahrman road in Romulus -- property owned by John Ryznar, father-in-law of then City Councilman Noah "Pete" Bergeron.

Attendance at City Council meetings which then were extremely sparse -- mushroomed to overflowing for several years -- as large gatherings of citizens turned out to speak out against the well and its supporters.

Jam-packed zoning board meetings followed and then a flurry of court sessions were conducted -- many won by city forces.

But in the past year, the tide began to turn and it was announced that EDS would be permitted to put a temporary cap on its Wahrman road well units, so that the Citrin drive facility issue could be settled in the near future.

That temporary cap was installed two weeks ago.

Romulus soldier serving in Bosnia

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

U.S. Army Specialist Charles A. Wilkerson of Romulus has been deployed to Bosnia for eight months as part of the Operation Joint Forge Task Force, Camp McGovern APO AE09789.

Wilkerson is the son of former Romulus School Board member Edward L. Wilkerson and his wife, Lorraine, who works in the school district's administration offices on Grant road.

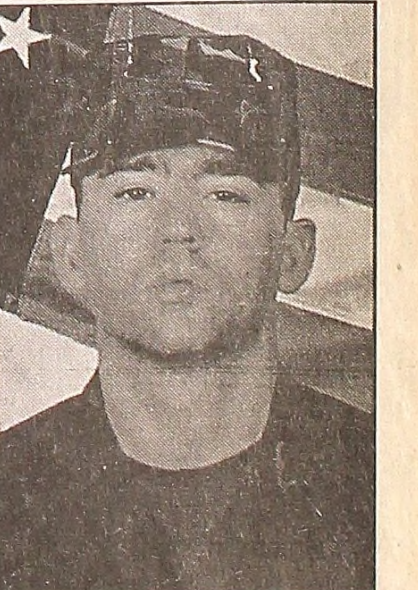

Wilkerson, a 1992 Romulus High School graduate, is with the 1st of the 12th Cavalry Division from Fort Hood, Tex.

As a community service the Wilkersons reveal that the Task Force's home web page can be found on the internet at <http://www.tfeagle.army.mil/index.htm>.

"Anyone wishing to send a message to our sons and daughters in support of their efforts can go to the web and send such messages," the Wilkersons emphasize.

"Send some cheer to our troops," they urge, "they need our support!"

Romulus dispatcher aids in family health crisis

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Veteran Romulus Police Dispatcher Terry Sands was emotionally praised by a local father for aiding him following a recent seizure his young son suffered last Friday.

Geoffrey Scicluna stated he got into a high state of anxiety early that morning, when his son, Zachary, apparently suffered a seizure and fell on the bathroom floor.

Despite repeated emergency sessions, his family undertakes in their Brandt street home on a regular basis, Scicluna said he went into a highly emotional state when he picked up his son and found him "stiff as a board."

Scicluna quickly called 9-1-1 and reached Officer Tom Ellis and dispatcher Sands.

Sands - a low-keyed city employee - quickly calmed Scicluna down and led him verbally through a CPR-style series of actions.

While Sands takes the event in stride - saying it is just part of his job - Scicluna praises Sands who "quicken my son Zachary's recovery."

Despite Scicluna's own prior CPR training and use of the procedures three times in the past, Sands quickly calmed him down by asking direct and civil questions that aided him until public safety officers arrived.

Scicluna also praised his older son Tyler's actions, since he was taking a bath just as the health emergency began.

The family emergency training efforts apparently helped young Tyler immensely. Because while Sands was passing constant messages to his dad, Tyler heeded Scicluna's cry "this is a real emergency son."

Tyler then dried himself off and got dressed for pre-school, Scicluna said proudly.

After police and fire department units arrived to take over treatment of the stricken boy, their working mother, Glenda, was contacted and met them at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

Zachary later was transported to Mott's Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor for additional treatment and later returned home to Romulus.

Scicluna said he has only met Sands to date on the phone.

"I'd like to meet him in person and express my deep thanks. I'd also like to ask him how he felt I handled the crisis on my end," the relieved father concluded.

Westland Marine Pfc. Kenneth A. Jordan took part in a recent "Urban Warrior" combat exercise in the northern California cities of Oakland and Alameda.

Jordan, 20, son of John Jordan of Westland, was aboard when Marines of the First Marine Expeditionary Force sped from the warship USS Bonhomme Richard in an amphibious landing craft.

The Marines crossed the San Francisco East Bay in minutes and then landed and took control of simulated combat situations in each city.

Praising the realistic training efforts, Jordan said "it is important to train Marines for urban combat since it is likely most conflicts will be fought in an urban environment."

Jordan, who serves as a scout for a Marine ground unit, has been in the Marines for over one year.

The combat scenarios in this exercise mimicked those which Marines, soldiers and sailors face in Somalia and Haiti. Many military strategists believe these small scale urban conflicts will be the rule in the 21st century.

The instant actions have three main operational areas: humanitarian and disaster relief, peacekeeping and combat amid a city.

The sailors and Marines also tested new weapons in the exercise: including an ultra-modern Sea Shadow - a warship that is virtually undetectable by radar.

Marines carried such unconventional weapons as laptop computers, digital radios and acoustical anti-sniper weapons that automatically home in on the sound of a sniper's weapons.

"It is important to have forces overseas for quick action, if a conflict occurs," Jordan said.

As a world leader, the U.S. faces a host of challenges as we enter the new century."

Exercises like Urban Warrior will continue to ensure that Jordan and other military personnel are prepared for these challenges.

Marine PFC. Michael A. Drake, son of Colleen M. Scannell of Westland, recently reported for duty with the Marine Corps Security Force Co. in London, England.

He is a 1998 graduate of Plymouth-Salem High School in Canton.

Two area residents - Ryan H. Cretens and Brian W. Kolb - have enlisted in the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Entry Program as of March 19.

Cretens is the son of Mary Glasgow of Canton and Kolb is the son of Brenda and Raymond Kolb of Westland.

Both men are 1995 graduates of John Glenn High School and are scheduled to enlist in the Air Force on May 12, according to Staff Sgt. Christopher Gulotta, Air Force recruiter at 36480 Ford road in Westland.

Kolb currently has 125 college credits from Kentucky Christian College with a double major in Bible studies and Teaching Education.

Artist Judith Peck will display an exhibit called "Survivors" at the Swords into Plowshares Peace Center and Gallery in Detroit. It will open April 9.

A reception will be held from 5:30 to 9 p.m. April 9 at the center located at 33 E. Adams in downtown Detroit.

Peck's home years ago was marked with a swastika. The action created an interest in studying instances of intolerance around the world.

Peck has been a faculty member of the Smithsonian. Her works have been on exhibit in Florida, California and Puerto Rico. Some of her artwork will be on sale.

Peck feels that history has been written "by victors" to promote a point of view, rather than telling the truth.

Her artwork thus represents those in history who have been on the repression end of the story.

U.S. census jobs available

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

U.S. Census jobs for the year 2000 are now becoming available with pay scales ranging from $8-$11 an hour, a census bureau spokesman said.

But with Michigan's strong economy, the U.S. Census Bureau is finding a lack of job seekers.

Nearly 2000 persons need to be recruited to fill the available spots in western Wayne County and adjoining areas.

Block canvassing starts at the end of this month. Enumerators are paid $11.50 per hour plus 32.5 cents per mile.

Those interested should call 1-888-325-7733.

Census recruiters said "we are looking for people who may not necessarily be looking for work. Since much of this work is done in the evenings and on weekends, we hire many persons who want supplemental income."

They add "most of these jobs last about six to 12 weeks."

An added issue is that Southeast Michigan -- and in particular the Detroit Metro area -- needs an accurate census count for proper distribution of state and federal funds.

Locally persons may call Jim at 734-467-1878.

YW drive seeks teens and women

A spring membership drive by the YWCA of Western Wayne County is seeking to attract more teenagers and women.

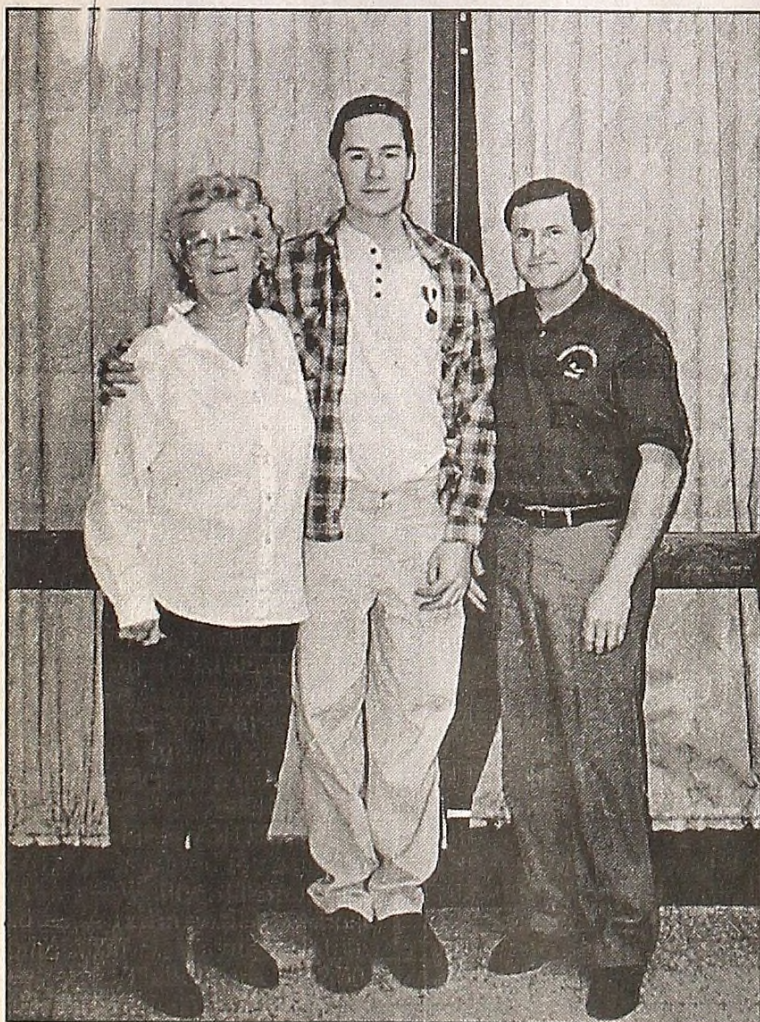

The drive begins today and concludes June 30 with basic membership costing $10 and a supporting membership costing $25.

A patron contribution is $50 and a Century Club designation is made with a $100 donation.

For those 17 and under the cost is only $5, according to 19th District Court Judge Virginia Sobotka, who is coordinating the drive.

The YW is located at 26279 Michigan Ave. in Inkster.

Lutheran youth help the hungry

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The spirit of Lent was magnified for a band of 20 or more youth and young adults from St. Michael's Lutheran Church of Wayne last weekend, as they fasted for 31 hours so that others might eat.

The extensive program began seconds after midnight Friday and concluded at 7 a.m. on Palm Sunday.

During this time the participants watched videos about the hungry and took part in games, special events and a major collection of cash and food products from Wayne and Westland subdivision residents.

The door to door solicitation including trades of pieces of candy for a food item, a spokeswoman said.

Money collected this past weekend will be given to the World Vision Organizations and food items will be donated to local food banks for the hungry in the western Wayne County area.

As part of the "famine" participants will be serving lunch at the Trinity Episcopal Church (Trumbell and Martin Luther King Blvd.) in Detroit.

While not eating food themselves during this time, the young Lutheran participants will be consuming juice and water.

Local businesses also chipped in to help the cause -- by putting collection containers in their shops or donating juice and food items for the youth after the program concludes.

Adam Adamopoulos, one of the owners of Jonathan's Restaurant on Michigan Avenue, hosted a breakfast for the famine-team members Sunday morning celebrating the successful youth effort.

"Everyone should be concerned about the needs of the poor and about the problem of hunger around the world,"

Rachel Jones, a 17-year-old participant stated prior to the weekend effort.

"Sometimes when we see people in need, we feel helpless, but the 30 hour famine gives us a way to make a difference in people's lives," Jones added.

Last year more than $6 million was collected by 600,000 young persons across the U.S.

Around the world the amount collected reached $20 million and the participant level rose to one-and-a-half million persons.

The World Vision campaign has a two-fold purpose: first to raise funds and food for the needy and second to educate young persons about the extreme needs across the U.S. and the world today.

Upcoming church activities in brief

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Western Wayne County area church pastors are reminding local Christians that Easter Sunday also is the first day of Daylight Savings Time.

Thus Christians are urged to remember to set their clocks ahead before going to bed Saturday night or they could miss an important part of the church's Easter program.

An ecumenical Good Friday service is slated at noon tomorrow at the Denton Faith United Methodist Church. An ecumenical choir under the direction of Gwenyth Ashe will take part with the aid of organist Joyce Younk.

The public is invited.

A new church -- River of Life Fellowship -- has opened at 9426 Wayne road in Romulus and is currently conducting "Celebration Services" at 10 a.m. Sunday each week.

A blue sign complete with a waving stream of water adorns the front of the church building.

During Sunday morning services participants will witness colorful streamers, banners and even dancing.

The fellowship considers itself spirit-filled and while it is non-denominational bears a New Testament base in theology.

The inside of the older church structure contains rooms that have been remodeled with contemporary decor.

The church also offers a weekly Bible Discovery Class, small group sessions and fellowship sessions in various homes.

The fellowship extends an open invitation to the public to visit the church located one quarter mile north of I-94 on Wayne road (west side of road).

A book sale is being planned by the Tried and True Thrift Store on Michigan ave. in Wayne from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. April 17.

Thousands of books -- both hard and soft covers -- will be available at a rate of 10 books for $1. Children's books, mysteries, romance novels and other styles will be included.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to support the ministry of the People of the Book Lutheran Outreach, located next door.

The store and church are located near the corner of Michigan avenue and Wayne road. Those seeking to visit the book sale are urged to use the store's rear door.

The upcoming roast beef dinner of the Community United Methodist Church of Romulus will be from 5 to 7 p.m. April 10.

Cost is $7 for adults, $3 for children 12 and under and those under the age of five will be served free.

Carry-outs will be offered by calling 941-0736.

Pastor Jimmy Lawson of the Community Free Will Baptist Church of Westland revealed a "Homecoming" service will be held at 11 a.m. April 11.

The morning program will begin with a 10 a.m. Sunday School for all ages.

Following the 11 a.m. service the congregation will serve a dinner in the church gymnasium. After the meal a time of fellowship and song will follow in the church sanctuary.

The church is located at 33031 Cherry Hill road.

Lawson said that a "revival" series of services will be held at 7 p.m. April 25-28 under the direction of the Rev. Paul Ange of North Carolina.

The annual Wayne Crop Walk will take place from 3 to 4 p.m. on May 2. Registration will be from 1:30 to 2 p.m. that day.

Last year there were 300 Crop walkers and $15,000 was collected.

A blood drive is slated from 2 to 8 p.m. April 8 at the Community United Methodist Church of Romulus.

My struggle for peace found with manatees

While the NATO Alliance bombs Serbia and druggers shoot down friends they feel betrayed them in Inkster, I have discovered peace and tranquility in a wondrous cove called Rinkers with the most gentle beings occupying this earth, manatees, in sunny Florida.

It is no secret that I was headed for a heart attack. Having worked my way up the success ladder, success beget more success and the demands I made upon myself and everyone around me were making me an angry person that was going to crack sometime soon. I had to find innerpeace, and I had to find it soon.

So a couple of year's ago I bought a vacation getaway in Florida, and now spend several weeks out of the year basking in the sun while working the phone and fax feverishly back to the office. This was my own prescription for eliminating the daily business stress that was eating me up.

I made some progress. However, I soon learned that stress was with me whether I was working in the office or 1300 miles away. It really didn't begin to escape until I bought a boat and directed it towards this unknown cove three miles across the large expanse of the Indian River.

Rinkers Cove, part of the Cape Canaveral protected lands, is impossible to reach by foot. Likewise, few boats seem to steer its narrow course, probably deterred by cove inhabitants like alligators and water moccasins. But if you brave the mile long journey to the cove's end, you are usually always greeted by God's gentlest of creatures, the manatee.

The manatee are endangered species. There are dozens of laws in Florida protecting the friendly sea cows that can grow to 2000-3000 pounds. Each year a few hundred of the mammals are killed by their only known enemy, powerboat propellers. Now there are only a few thousand manatees left, and in Brevard County, where my boat is docked, there are more manatees than any other place in the world.

And it was the spot, this remote, unbelievably beautiful cove, amongst these creatures that I have found innerpeace. On any given day, as long as the Indian River is navigable, you will find me at the end of Rinker's Cove. Last Sunday was a particularly gratifying day.

Karen and I loaded our boat with fishing gear and beverages, to prepare for a day in the cove. I don't know why I take fishing gear. The fact is I've never caught a fish in the cove. We traveled the three mile distance over three foot high Indian River waves to the genteel calm of the mouth of Rinker's Cove. There we were greeted by a small alligator who eerily watched as we traveled slowly the mile distance to the end of the cove.

Once there, we anchored. Not thirty seconds later and a small female manatee came slowly to the boat's edge. The six foot long, approximately 700 pound ball of wiry flesh had no fear. She came swimming right to Karen and allowed us to pet and scratch her for long periods of time. Once in awhile the big mammal would roll over next to the boat so that we could scratch it's tender belly. This went on not for five minutes, not for a half hour, but for the length of a college basketball game, 2 hours and five minutes.

The mammal would not leave us, and we would not leave her. Unlike dolphin that ride waves alongside a boat but typically will not venture to the touch of humans, manatee, when in playful moods, will practically come aboard your boat. Like a domesticized dog, the manatee almost seek human interaction.

I feel lucky that I am one of the few people that have had this opportunity to interact with the manatee. I wish everyone that has picked up this newspaper to read this account will one day have the same opportunity. Unfortunately, most reports indicate this will not happen. Boat propellers are chopping up more manatee than are being born. Like other gentle giants before our time, the manatee is doomed.

And me. I've found my innerpeace, not at the hands of a psychiatrist, or a life-threatening health ailment, but because I've had the opportunity, time and again, to play with the manatees, an experience like none other.

Mike's musings

Mike Wilcox

Little should go out a hero

No doubt the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will play scant attention to lame duck Superintendent Chuck Little.

Expect him to become the invisible man in Plymouth and Canton during his last four months, when he devotes himself to preparing for life without bond elections and multi-million-dollar budgets.

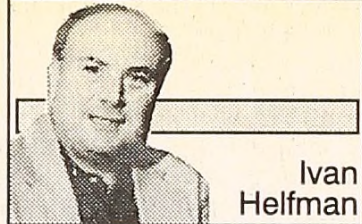

Contrary to their public statements feigning surprise at Little's resignation, most board probably felt relieved to be rid of the man who could neither build a new high school on time, balance critical future budgets, nor get along with teachers during his five years on the job.

Many teachers cheered his resignation.

At one of the high schools, teachers clapped upon hearing the announcement. Some sang "Hallelujah." At least one sang "Ding Dong the Witch Is Dead."

I also suspect that for weeks the board has been busy greasing the way for Assistant Superintendent Pat O'Donnell to become the district's top dog. I'm told that, during the last few weeks, O'Donnell has looked like the proverbial cat that swallowed the canary.

But Little needn't leave the district with a whimper:

Ivan Helfman

He could do a few things to salvage the rag end of his administration.

No longer obligated to be the school board's stooge, he could propose a sensible plan for the new high school.

The current plan seeks to dilute the quality and quantity of classes and extracurricular activities at the district's two-high-school campus by breaking it up into two and a half underfunded and understaffed schools.

Reflecting the board's corporate leadership, it favors administration building bean counters' downsizing fetishes over pupils' need for well rounded educations and balanced lives.

Little could depart a hero if he junked the high school plan and raised this question: "Why build a new high school at all?"

Instead, he could advocate using the new high school's portion of the bond money to build additional to the campus to offer students more and better classes. Classrooms could be built for academic classes, advanced placement classes, career training, and art and music, creating the best magnet school in the state.

To prepare elementary and middle school students for these opportunities, Little could also quit whining about "the restrictions of Proposal A" and use the superintendent's report portion of board meetings to champion a return to basic teaching techniques.

American educators have demonstrated the benefits of teaching reading by phonics and the detriments of teaching it by the whole language method. Little could urge the board to district to drop the whole language method.

International educators have demonstrated the benefits of drill instruction and the detriments of team "learning." Little could urge the board to follow suit.

It's not too late for Little to come out for something designed to enrich the district's pupils instead of feeding the educational lobby.

Since Little is going to Indiana to lobby for 27 school districts, he will have plenty of time to feed the educators. This is his last chance to lobby for more and better classes and proven teaching methods - his last chance to win back the respect of the districts' teachers and community.

WEEKLY SYNDICATED COLUMN by PERCY ROSS

A Second Chance To Smile At Life

Dear Mr. Ross: I'm 26 and have been bulimic for years. Three months ago my friends did an intervention on me, which forced me to seek help. That was the last day I binged and purged. Life is still scary. There are no guarantees or cures with this illness--no more so than if I were an alcoholic.

I work with the public and personal appearance is important. I used to have a beautiful smile but my teeth have lost so much enamel that I'm hesitant to show what were once my pearly whites. My teeth have a gray appearance and I'm more than self-conscious over it. My dental plan says the work I need is cosmetic and not covered by insurance. It's going to cost $2,800. The dentist requires 25-percent down, 25-percent the day we begin treatment and the other 50-percent can be made in monthly installments. I need $700 to begin treatment, because I've already paid the first $700. No special reason you should want to help me. I ruined my teeth all by myself, so I should have to pay. However, doesn't everyone deserve a second chance?

Miss S. O. ... Arizona Pennysaver, Tempe, AZ

Dear Miss O.: You're working and willing to take responsibility for your actions. You're willing to make changes because your past lifestyle wasn't healthy. And, you're willing to meet me halfway. Why on God's green earth wouldn't I be willing to help you?

Bulimia is very serious. If you were still active in it, my help would be of no help to you. But the minute an individual is willing to help themselves, then my aid can carry great momentum. Now that you've got the "Big Mo" by way of my $700--go for it and good luck.

Dear Percy: I'm a second grade teacher at Preston Elementary in Rialto, California. Over a year ago, I wrote you asking for money to buy my students books. You did not send a check, but gave a much greater gift. Publishing my letter and asking your readers to donate children's books was a Godsend. To this day, I have received over 15,000 books! To this end, I have seen more children develop a love of reading due to the generosity of your readers. I realize the time, effort and money that was involved in sending the books to us and want to publicly thank everyone. Most of the children at our school now have a great library of their own--something they never would have had without the help of your readers.

Lisa Frank ... The Sun, San Bernardino, CA

Dear Readers: You're the greatest! For those of you who have been with me over the years, you've saved a young girl's life by way of organ transplantation, given away service dogs, helped a failing Jewish elementary school, helped the victims of several house fires, and most recently helped little Dylan Brown, who lost his father--a policeman--in a fatal shooting.

On a personal note, you've encouraged me to keep this column going which is now in its 16th year. Thanks a Million kind of says it all.

Dear Mr. Ross: I'm 16 years old and have a car with no radio. I have a part-time job and the money I get goes into gas to take me, my brother and sister to school every day. My parents pay my insurance but say they can't afford a radio. My brother and I love my sister very much, but her humming and singing along to songs in her head has gotten very annoying. Could you please send me $100 so I could get a radio in my car?

D. S. ... Coteau Shopper, Watertown, SD

Dear D.: My Chief of Operations, Kurt Jess, says if your sister can hum the entire drum solo to Iron Butterfly's "In-A-Gadda-Da-Vida" the car radio is yours. Evidently you need to be a Baby Boomer to get the joke. But the car radio you will get by way of my forthcoming check. Here's to good tunes.

Kosovo is wrong war at wrong time

To the Editor:

President Clinton's sudden war with Yugoslavia is so strange as to seem almost surreal.

With one stroke, Clinton has created a Pan-Slavic unity in the old Soviet-bloc that Stalin could only dream about.

With one stroke, the Cold War flames have been rekindled. Our embassies now attacked, even as we bomb.

We approach the millenium in a few months with stock markets over valued, currencies in chaos, computers crashing, China looming and Japan and Europe typing themselves into economic pretzels to survive.

We all know that Clinton is a chance taker-even to the point of being, at times, dangerously self-destructive. Is this to be his long-sought "legacy?"

Why do we need this war? Why now?

Live animals should not be Easter gifts

To the Editor:

The Michigan Humane Society (MHS) warns parents not to purchase live bunnies, chicks, or ducklings to be given as Easter presents. While these animals arrive as a cute ball of fur Easter morning, after the initial excitement wears off many people are not prepared to provide the time and energy necessary to care for a live, growing animal. Animals purchased on impulse or as holiday "novelty items" often end up at shelters, or worse, abandoned to fend for themselves.

"One of our goals is to teach children a healthy respect for all forms of life," says Michele Mitchell, MHS Community Relations Director. "Buying bunnies and chicks on impulse and disposing of them when they become too much of a nuisance is not an example we'd like children to follow." The MHS recommends that parents fill gift baskets with stuffed animals, toys, and books that teach children about animals and how to care for them as alternatives to live animals.

The Michigan Humane Society is a private, nonprofit organization serving the animals since 1877. The MHS operates three full-service shelters and charitable animal hospitals in the Metro Detroit area.

Sincerely
The Michigan Humane Society

Food director responds to false accusations in "Sound Off"

To the Editor:

My name is Barry Baumann, Department Supervisor at Wayne County Office of Nutrition, which handles the Food Commodity program in Wayne County. I would like to respond to a Sound Off column which appears in the Eyewitness Newspaper 3/28/99.

I find it regrettable that this newspaper would print such comments without first checking for accuracy. Not only do these statements shed a bad light on the good work Metro-Wayne is doing, it reflects on our total program as well.

The caller questions Metro-Wayne's leftover commodity product, even stating that "I have seen leftover government cheese inside". Let me state, for the record, that this statement is blatantly untrue. Metro-Wayne distributes under the USDA TEFAP program. This program has NOT distributed cheese since the late 1980's! We are not even eligible to receive this product under current USDA policy.

The caller further questioned the leftover commodities, suggesting that they are used for organizational functions. This is also impossible. Internal monitoring and auditing of distributions occur on a monthly basis. "Stockpiling" as the caller suggests is ludicrous.

Finally, I would like to reaffirm that Metro-Wayne has always been in total compliance with USDA and State of Michigan guidelines and policies. I personally have inspected Metro-Wayne's operation and have found absolutely no violations.

Sincerely
Barry Baumann

Solve the drug problem by giving addicts free dope

To the Editor:

Once you win a big reelection, it seems you can go out and do almost any fool thing you want. No, no - we're not talking about Bill Clinton. We mean Rudy Giuliani.

The mayor of New York has now ordered all 2000 methadone out-patients at city-run hospitals to give the stuff up and go clean. They have 90 days. Luckily his order does not apply to the 30,000 users based at the city's private hospitals. One guesses that their case load will soon rise by another 2,000. Actually, maybe that's Giuliani's plan. By chasing away 2,000 patients, the city can save a little money.

In any case, you'd like to believe that the mayor's directive was not a serious proposal for drug treatment. Even American's hard-nosed drug czar, Gen. Barry McCaffrey, told him, in nicer terms, that he was nuts. So has virtually everyone else who's spoken.

Some states, blessedly, are moving in the opposite direction. Pilot projects are underway to make methadone easier to get, not harder. Long years of experience have shown that it works. Many otherwise hopeless heroin addicts can lead virtually normal lives with methadone medication. The goal is to let stabilized users get the stuff by prescription from their doctor. Then they would no longer need to frequent the dehumanizing regimen of clinics.

And why not, for goodness sake? The New York Times has concluded that it's still easier to get heroin in this country than methadone.

That's no way to persuade addicts to clean up their lives. And now Brookhaven National Laboratory thinks it may be onto a substance to do for cocaine addicts what methadone does for heroin addicts. Keep your fingers crossed, and don't tell Mayor Giuliani.

Luckily, more enlightened politicians exist elsewhere. In Switzerland, not exactly a wild-eyed place, authorities now actually distribute heroin itself to truly craven addicts. These are creatures for whom even methadone won't do the job. The results have been remarkable. Among the patients in this highly regimented program, crime is way down, health is way up, employment has taken root, and even attempts to kick the habit have sprouted.

Not surprisingly, Holland is trying that idea too, along with a few other European nations. More surprisingly, Vancouver officials are pressing Canada to give it a try. But don't hold your breath for the United States. We have too many people whose jobs are invested in the Drug War. Even many inner cities, shamefully, won't pass out clean needles to combat AIDS.

In fact you have to wonder if America really wants to stop drugs at all. Big bucks are squandered on friendly foreign dictators, futilely urging them to keep their peasants from growing the stuff. Still bigger bucks are squandered to imprison legions of minority men, futilely trying to keep drugs off the street. And moderate bucks are squandered on DARE and the Partnership for a Drug-Free America. These groups futilely try to convince kids that all drugs are equally bad.

Kids, of course, being raised on TV hypocrisy, can spot all this a mile away. Lectures which equate marijuana with heroin draw their rightful scorn. So do commercials which admonish smoking pot, but are shown on channels which encourage drinking Bud. Luckily there are better ways to deal with drugs, and some states, praises be, are at least headed in that direction. Washington, cursedly, is not.

Sincerely,
William A. Collins

Pontiac Northern chills Salem's playoff title dreams

Salem's Andy Kocoloski (31) finds the road to Pontiac Northern's basket blocked by the Huskies' top scorer, Nucleus Smith. Smith's game-high 22 points and Salem's eight first-period turnovers proved fatal for the Rocks which were eliminated in the state quarterfinals at U of D's Calihan Hall. Plymouth-Salem, the last of the local high school basketball teams left standing in the Class A state title race, fell last week to Pontiac Northern, 70-64, in the state quarterfinals.

The quarterfinal was staged in the University of Detroit-Mercy College's Calihan Hall. Coach Bob Brodie's Rocks committed five turnovers and had three shots blocked in the first eight minutes of the game which opened the gates for a 21-11 Northern lead.

"We got off to a very poor start against an outstanding team," Brodie said afterward. "Committing those early turnovers and having three shots blocked added to our frustration."

"We came back. But we never got the lead and into our game until it was too late."

Salem also ran up against 6-5 Norb Mosley, who apparently was out to prove a point to his coach. Apparently not scheduled to start in the quarterfinal game, Mosley convinced Northern coach Robert Rogers to put him into the starting lineup.

Rogers did.

And Mosley responded by swatting away three of Salem's early shots, that led to fast-breaks and layups and a quick Pontiac Northern lead. Mosley intimidated the Rocks in the early stages of the duel and helped the Huskies to a 10-point lead.

Although Salem managed to adjust and outscored the Huskies, 53-49, in the final three quarters, the damage had already been inflicted. Salem never saw the lead, despite outstanding performances from senior Rob Jones, and Mike Korduba, who came off the bench to spark a second quarter rally, and Aaron Rypkowski.

Salem stayed within striking range, 40-29, at the half and trailed 52-40 for three before the Rocks outgunned their opponents 24-18 in the final frame to close within six.

Salem looked as if it would again make a comeback against Pontiac as it did at the regional tournament when it jolted Southfield-Lathrup in the finals and Detroit Northern in the final seconds.

Adam Wilson, whose late baskets and free throws against S-L and Detroit Northern provided the Rocks their ticket to the quarterfinals, drilled nine points on successive three-pointers to pull Salem within four (68-64) of tying the game late in the battle.

But Pontiac managed to hang on.

Jones finished his prep hoop career with 20 points, the team's high. Korduba added 15, while Rypkowski accounted for 11 for the Rocks who made 11 of their 15 free throws.

Mosley intimidated the Rocks in the early stages of the duel and helped the Huskies to a 10-point lead.

Pontiac Northern canned 24 of 30 charities.

Northern's Nucleus Smith's 22 points topped the field. His supporting cast included Will Jones, who had 13 points; Ricky Morgan finished 13 points and Lester Abrams had 10.

On Saturday, Ann Arbor Pioneer surfaced with a 54-47 victory over Saginaw Arthur Hill to capture its first Class A state basketball title.

In Class B, River Rouge, behind the exceptional play by Brent Darby and Rodney Hughes, successfully defended their state title thanks to a 20-point, 74-54, victory over Cheboygan.

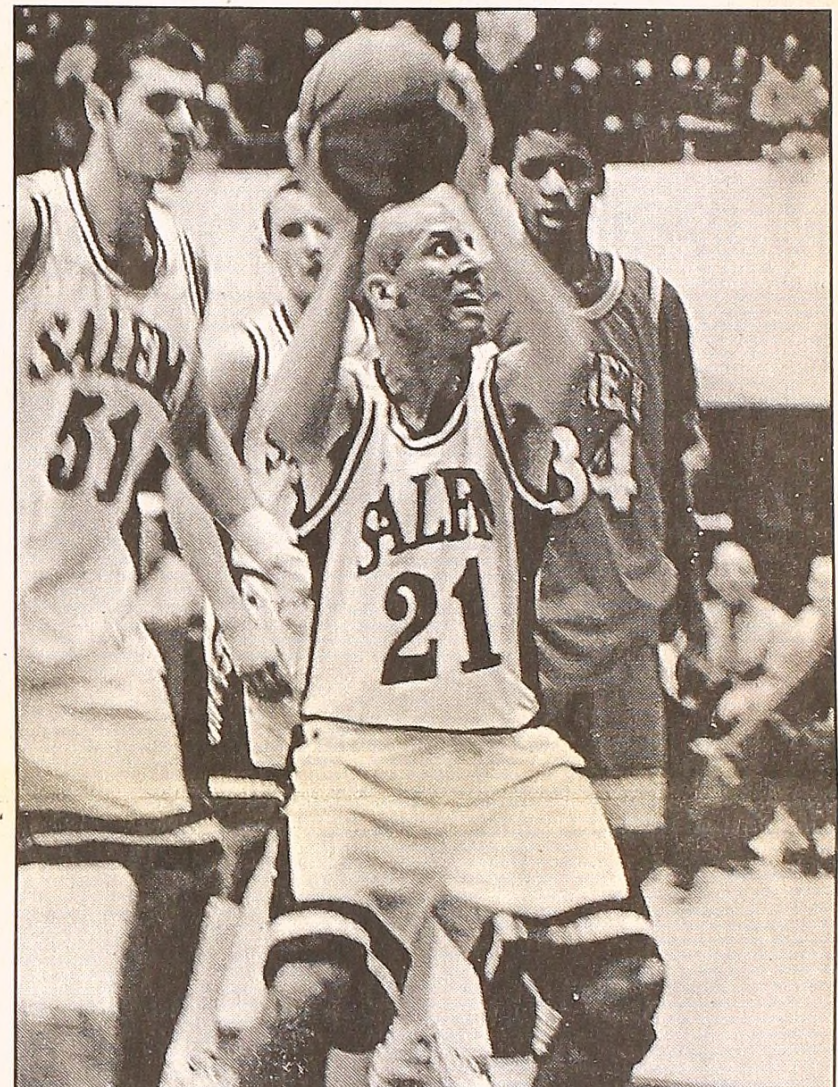

'Dream Team' is next

As usual the 1998-99 high school basketball season produced its share of outstanding players.

You've read their names, about their achievements, of their trials and tribulations here over the past four months. Some of them will return to lead their teams for the 1999-2000 campaign; others will move on and play for colleges locally and across the country.

While still others will fade into history.

But, before they, and the recently completed season be-

Salem's Rob Jones (21) pauses before he leaps toward the Pontiac Northern hoop. Unfortunately, Northern's Norbert Mosley was waiting for the Rock senior and batted the ball away. Jones finished with a team high 20 points in a 70-64 losing cause in the state quarterfinals. Photo by Aaron Ortiz

Lawmakers tampering with prep athletics' eligibility rules

Unenrolled students may displace enrolled students on public high school athletic teams, if the state lawmakers have their way.

The state House is debating House Bill 4204 which would change the face of high school sports in Michigan.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association has voiced its concerns and opposition to the proposed bill as presented in its present form. John E. "Jack" Roberts, MHSAA director, has expressed his thoughts in the following statement:

The most basic policy of school sports - the premise and the first rule - is that persons must be students of the schools they represent in competition.

The policy is not absolutely rigid. Many accommodations are available. If students and schools agree and arrange, students can take some or all of their courses in another facility and remain eligible at their base school. This can apply, for example, to:

- Special education students;
- Alternative education students;
- Students taking courses at colleges and universities;
- School-administered home-bound, home schooling and distance-learning programs;
- Schools involved in cooperatively sponsored sports programs.

In each case, a close connection between students and the schools they represent in sports must be maintained. It is inconsistent with the goals and objectives of educational athletics to have students without such a connection drop by the school building after the school day is over and take spots on school teams away from properly enrolled and/or connected students.

We have no quarrel with those who choose alternatives to public schools. They should have this prerogative. And likewise, schools should be allowed the prerogative to limit their teams to their own students.

Some people who do not choose public schools for their children's classroom education want their children to associate with those schools for the sports teams their preferred program of education either can't or will not provide. They ignore the hypocrisy of that position.

Most often they use the argument that they pay taxes, believing doing so purchases their son or daughter the right to engage in an activity for which they are not enrolled. They ignore that no such right exists.

The basic rule of school sports is enrollment - enrollment in the school that sponsors the team. Any modification of the basic rule should occur in the future as it has been in the past: because educators, not politicians, see the need and can implement the change with proper accountability.

Journeyman slug their way to berth in World Series

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

They may have changed their name, and added a couple of new faces to their roster, but Westland's, Journeyman/Varsity/ Ques/Easton looked the team of old as they got off to an impressive start on the invitational softball tournament circuit.

Manager Larry Quartuccio's club won four of their six games in Las Vegas where they competed in the Far West Budweiser Men's USSSA Class AA-A classic.

The Westlanders' 4-2 record in Vegas clinched for them a berth in the World Series. The Series will be staged in September during the Labor Day weekend in Sterling Heights.

Journeyman/Varsity/Ques/Easton was the top Class A team in the Las Vegas tournament; Long Haul/Hendus out of Seattle, the No. 1 A-A ball club.

Quartuccio has picked up two new players to bolster his lineup. The newcomers are Jamie Gordon, who played for Oakland Plumbing and David Dohanos, who was with the Journeyman's a year ago.

"These players definitely will increase our hitting power," Quartuccio added.

The longtime Wayne softball manager who was the catalyst for starting the Len Anderson Memorial Softball Tournament said that he didn't know how the team would perform in their season opener, but was pleased with the four wins.

"I wasn't sure how we would play so early in the year, but I must say I am very happy with the way we did," Quartuccio said.

The Westlanders placed two of their own on the All-Tournament Team. Jason Riggs and Scott Janack were honored for their outstanding performances and picked to represent the local club on the All-Tournament team.

Riggs hammered 18 hits, seven of them going for the distance. He also collected 23 RBIs and wound up batting .818 for the six-games series. Janack also drilled four homers and knocked in 16 runs in a 19 of 26 (.714) batting effort.

"I must add that we had quite a few guys who could have, should have been added to the all tourney team, but as you know not all can be put on the team," Quartuccio added.

In a slugfest against After-shock of Fairfield, Ca., Journeyman surfaced a 30-20 winner. Scott Hille led the HR parade with three circuit blasts, and he also carded five RBIs. Riggs checked in with a pair of doubles and two homers.

The winners also received a teams will meet at 6:30 p.m.; Over 40 (E League) representatives are requested to meet at 7 p.m., while the managers and coaches for the Men's League are scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m.

The 14-15 game season will get underway on May 3, according to recreation officials who also note that there will be one umpire per game, an official score keeper, and a playoff series after the regular season is completed.

Also, there will also be an All-Star Game which will feature the top players of the teams.

For further information, please call Keith Alexander at the Wayne Community Center. Alexander may be reached by dialing (734)721-7400.

Wayne plans girls softball leagues

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

If you're interested in competing in a girls' softball program in the city of Wayne this summer, for players between the ages of eight and 18, the Wayne Parks and Recreation Department may have a league for you.

Recreation officials announced that they are registering teams and players - residents or non-residents - for the following leagues: Pee Wee (ages 8-11); Junior League (12-14) and Senior League (15-18).

To register players must present their birth certificates, along with a parental consent signature and registration fee.

Registration is $30 for residents; the non-resident fee is $40.

Recreation officials said that they need coaches for the junior league program.

There is a coaches' meeting scheduled for 7:15 p.m. on April 13 at the Wayne Community Center.

For more information, call (734) 721-7400.

Sonics soar to hoop title

The Sonics completed a "rags to riches" story with a 11-1 record that included the Freshman League regular season championship in the Westland Youth Athletic Association. In post-season play, the Sonics lost an OT thriller, 39-38. Team members are Andrew Thyron (front row, left to right), Jessica Dwyer, Brad Way, and Jasmine Granberry; second row are Woodell Payne, Reginald Moore, Blaine Sabo, Jordan Marshall, and Terrell Wynn; in the third row are Marty Twork and David Way. Semi-pro football Twisters to conduct tests for talent

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

"We got an excellent response from the initial notice, but we still would like to see more candidates," said J. Glenn Brothers, president of the Wayne County Twisters, a semi-pro football team that is seeking football talent.

In their third season, the Twisters have managed to put a competitive team on the field for the past two years. The team has finished first or second in their division.

To find the necessary talent to fill their 1999 roster, Brothers said that the organization is conducting strength and physical tests so that potential players may be evaluated.

The tryouts will include such events as bench press, vertical jump, quarter-mile and 40-yard dashes and also an agility test.

All candidates must be 18 or older and in excellent physical condition.

There is a $20 registration fee to participate in the evaluation, and the fee will be collected at the door. The tests will be conducted at the Wayne Westland YMCA, located at 827 S. Wayne Road in Westland.

Participants are requested to check in at 1:30 p.m. for the April 11 and April 18 tests.

For more information or to pre-register call (734)981-7141 or (313) 359-3457.

Schedules please Let's get the Spring season started

With the high school winter sports season finally history, and spring sports on the launching pad, the Michigan Community Newspapers' Sports Staff is almost ready for spring.

Staffers definitely will need schedules to assign photographers and cover the local sports scene.

Local ADs who have not "faxed" or mailed the schedules are urged to do so as soon as possible.

The MCN Fax Number is 734-729-6088. The information may also be mailed to: Michigan Community Newspapers, C/O Sports Department, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184.

three-run homer from Jamie Gordon, who sparked a nine-run rally that erased a 6-3 Westland deficit. Journeyman's shortstop Randy Windham stood out on defense.

Ex-John Glenn great, Chris Scheffer, came through with a two-run pitch hit single in the bottom of the fifth that sparked a five-run inning and a 14-8 victory over Pov's of Brooklyn Center, Minnesota.

Hille laced four hits - all singles, and Tom Lengyel also had four hits, one was a double. Jamie Gordon missed hitting for the cycle. He had a single, double, and triple for the game.

Scott Nastally turned in an exceptional pitching performance as Journeyman edged Wantenbe of Cincinnati, Ohio, 18-8. Dohonas belted a homer and had two singles for 4 RBIs, and Gordon had a pair of two-baggers, a single and a homer that accounted for five runs batted in. Hille strung together three singles.

Wantenbe incidentally is a nationally-ranked AA Team.

Long Haul, sponsored by former Major League star David Henderson, jolted the Journeyman 28-22 as the Seattle club got a decisive three-run homer from outfielder Rick Wagner to put the game away.

The Journeyman wasted two homers from John Sampson and John Simpson, who had seven RBIs between them. Mark Matchulat chipped in a single, double and homer. Janask latched on to a pair of two baggers.

Despite homers from Lengyel (2), Scott Hille (2) and Sampson, Journeyman also came up short against Sunnyside, Va.

Hille finished with seven RBIs and Lengyel had four.

Journeyman almost pulled it out as they rallied for seven runs in the top of the seventh, but it wasn't enough.

Knights win Mites B hockey title

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

The RFB Knights captured the Adray Suburban Hockey League championship this season.

And they won the title in near-perfect fashion.

Coached by the foursome of Doug Diroff, Cary Roe, Wally Wojtala and Wally Lovell, the Knights compiled a 10-1-3 overall record en route to a second-place trophy in the Adray Playoffs, after winning the Adray Suburban championship.

"We had a great year with a bunch of great kids," stressed Wojtala, who serves as head coach for the club. "And we're looking forward to next year."

"We had a great year with a bunch of great kids, and we're looking forward to next year."

- Wally Wojtala

There were 31 teams entered this year in the Mites B Division, and the Knights managed to surface atop of the field in their division. They were second overall.

The Mites also competed in a series of tournaments, thanks to local and area sponsors. At the Havoc Tournament, the Knights posted a 2-1 record; the Saginaw Friendship Tournament, the Mites carded a 2-2 record, losing their last game in a double OT battle, 4-3. They also traveled downriver to the Wyandotte Invitational where they won two of their three games.

The Knights managed to win six playoff games, but they were defeated March 20 by Big Rapids, which skated off with the championship and the gold medals.

Canton to host organizational golf league meeting

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Canton Parks and Recreation officials said this week that they will conduct an organizational meeting for golfers who plan to play in that township's spring and summer men's league.

The meeting will be held at 6 p.m. April 14 at the Fellows Creek Golf Course, on Lotz Road (north of Michigan Ave.).

The league is open to Canton residents only, however, recreation officials say that they will accept registration from non-residents if the quota for players is not filled by April 16. There is a 36-player limit for the league.

Players will have to fork up $420 to register, and that cost will cover all league green fees, as well as pay for awards, league outing and prize money.

The league will begin play on April 21, at the golf course which offers three different 9-hole courses, a clubhouse with a pro-shop. There is also a restaurant located on site.

Prospective players may sign up from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, located at 46000 Summit Parkway.

Prep baseball star picked to play in the Netherlands

An area high school baseball star has been picked to play for the United States Baseball Stars.

Bryan Williams, a blue-chip pitcher in the Mega Blue Conference a year ago, will join a cadre of outstanding U.S. players who will tour the Netherlands this summer and play against their peers.

A right-hander who helped make Woodhaven a Blue Division and area baseball power a year ago, Bryan received congratulatory letters from U.S. Senator Carl Levin, who noted that "your trip to the Netherlands this summer will provide you with an amazing chance to compete with other dedicated athletes from around the world. Both the invitational tournament and the various seminars you will participate in will provide you with an unparalleled chance to learn and grow in all sorts of skills."

Williams also will be competing in the 11th annual Apeldoorn Baseball Series, a tournament hosted by one of the well-known baseball clubs in the Netherlands.

Joris Vos, Ambassador of the Netherlands, pointed out that "I hope you will enjoy not only the windmills and beautiful towns that the Netherlands are famous for, but also other aspects of our country which you will discover."

However Williams won't be able to enjoy anything unless he is able to raise the necessary $3,100 for the 14-day tour, according to Bryan's father, Dale Williams.

"We have received some donations, but have not raised the necessary funds for Bryon to make the trip," the senior Williams stated.

Anyone interested in donating to the Williams's trip fund is requested to telephone 1-734-692-1510.

Yankees continue search for talent

The Wayne Yankees are continuing their search for baseball talent.

The Yankees are presently conducting tryouts for players in the 13- year-old age bracket to fill their roster for their Little Caesar's Travel Baseball Team.

Tryouts are staged from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Taft Elementary School in Wayne.

Potential players are requested to bring their baseball glove. They also must pay a $1 fee to cover insurance costs.

The final cut for the team will be made on April 9.

Tryouts are staged from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Taft Elementary School in Wayne.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Mark Odom, the Yankees' coach. Odom may be reached at his home by dialing 595-7356. His pager is (734)651-9063.

Rouge is part of local history

By Dave Cox
Romulus Administrator

Imagine for a moment how different our world might have been were it not for Henry Ford.

Oh, we would have had cars, they had been building cars all over the planet for years before Henry Ford got started. We would have had mass production and standardization too as the foundation for these ideas had existed in various forms for century's starting with glass blowing and pyramid building, surely somebody would have been smart enough to figure it out.

The thing Henry Ford did that shaped life in America was this: he helped to create an industrial dynasty that gave us the tools we needed to survive a World War. When Japanese Admiral Yamamoto said, "My friends, I have traveled extensively in America... her industrial might is awesome," he was telling the truth.

When you live in Southeastern Michigan you drive by this industrial dynasty all the time. Yamamoto could well have been referring to Ford's Rouge Complex when he used the word "awesome", it really is the only word that accurately describes the sheer immensity of that facility. Of course, the reason it's called the "Rouge" Complex is that it was built on the banks of the Rouge River in order to take advantage of the water.

The waters ability to cool manufacturing equipment and as a means of reliable transportation was essential to manufacturing at that time. The grand experiment worked. The Ford Motor Company, Ford employees and everything and everyone in between prospered.

The fact that the American automobile empire grew in Southeastern Michigan was a significant event for the Rouge River. It brought unimaginable prosperity to our area and we did what people do when they are prosperous, we started building. In fact, we still haven't stopped building.

That's where a lot of that land went. The same land that soaked up rain water and snow melt, that supported oxygen giving plant life and kept the rivers banks from falling into itself.

That land became the Rouge Complex. It also became homes for people who worked at the Rouge Complex, it became machine shops and bearing plants and Great Lakes Steel. In fact, it became just about everything Henry Ford needed to build cars.

It modernized America -- thank God it did.

When the war broke out the industrial north stopped on a dime. It retooled from cars and trucks to planes and tanks. The Ford Rouge Complex built airplane engines and jeeps and the government started clearing land for an expressway so workers could get from their homes in Detroit to the new B-24 bomber plant in Ypsilanti.

In fact, that dump I told you about several weeks ago that Romulus is cleaning up is full of building materials from houses that were in the way of that new freeway. We all played a role, everybody and everything.

So, while we are all busy cleaning up the Rouge River we really can't gripe too much about why it got messed up in the first place. If you wanted to shake your fist at somebody, you could go to a little church at the corner of Plymouth Road and Greenfield in Detroit.

You can't miss St. Martha's, it's meticulously kept in an area that isn't. Near the front of the building, just off the parking lot, is a small family sized cemetery of the type that was common on church grounds 100 years ago.

Buried there, next to his wife Clara, is the great industrialist Henry Ford. You could probably blame him for some of the damage the Rouge has suffered, but it doesn't seem like it was a bad trade.

Coleman "Ron" Nash gathers with the Atchinson family to pick up his 71st vehicle from them. Pictured with him are Kurt, Jayne, Norman "Dutch" and Craig Atchinson. MCN photo by Carol Marshall

Now that's a Ford man!

By CAROL MARSHALL
MCN Staff Writer

A daily commute to Ford Motor Co., a wife, two grown daughters, and a love affair with Ford cars brought Coleman "Ron" Nash, Romulus, into Atchinson Ford, Belleville, to pick up his 71st vehicle from them.

That's right-- Nash has bought or leased 71 cars in 36 years, all financed through Ford Motor Credit.

It all started in 1963, when Nash landed a job at Ford. During his commute, he passed Atchinson's daily. So, he walked in and bought his first Ford--a 1964 red Falcon convertible. Shortly after came a 1964 T-Bird. "It's been all Fords ever since," Nash said.

But why buy all of them from Atchinson? Judging by the warm hugs from the staff, and the personal gifts they gave Nash, the answer seems obvious: "I get excellent service here. Obviously if I didn't, I wouldn't be here now," he said.

Cyrill shook Nash's hand and told him, "We don't have as many customers like you as we'd like. And there will never be another just like you." "It looks like I'll be back for number 72," said Nash.

Belleville business booms, chamber hosts Expo '99 to celebrate Belleville business is alive and well, a fact which the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce Expo '99 celebrated.

The Expo, held at the Woodlands of Van Buren on March 25, featured displays from local businesses, fabulous food and drinks. Door prizes and an opportunity to socialize added to the festive, fun atmosphere.

Coordinator Donna Hall said the exhibitors were pleased with the event, which offered them a chance to network with other area businesses as well as with the community.

L&W Engineering and EQ, The Environmental Quality Company helped sponsor the event, which was host to 17 businesses. Hall said the exhibitors were pleased with the professional, attractive atmosphere in which to showcase their businesses, and she looks forward to an even more successful Expo next year.

Awards were presented honoring longtime members. Charles Boelter, D.D.S. and Judge William Szlinis received their 20-year awards. Van Buren Public Schools and the Belleville Enterprise were honored with their 30-year awards.

All nine principals were also recognized for their support of the Chamber's Christmas program.

All nine school principals were also recognized for their support of the Chamber's Christmas Program.

Proceeds from the event went toward the Chamber's general fund, which helps members and supports community programs, said Executive Director Janel Millard.

Chamber President Linda Hall thanked The Woodlands for their warm hospitality, Speed Gant for his assistance, and Donna Hall for her hard work in coordinating the event.

Diane Fergusun, Belleville Enterprise, accepts the newspaper's 30-year plaque.

William Szlinis, 34th District Judge, accepts his 20-year plaque.

Chamber president Linda Hall presents Van Buren Schools Superintendent James Richendollar with the district's 30-Year plaque.

Hungry guests line up at the Expo's hors d'oeuvres table.

Firefighters change logos

The Canton Fire Department has redesigned the logo that is seen on the firefighter's uniforms, equipment, vehicles and department letterhead.

With the implementation of Advanced Life Support approaching it was decided to revisit the design of the logo, most prominently seen on the firefighter's uniforms. Emergency Medical Service has always been a significant part of the department's responses, so it was decided that the logo should reflect the EMS part of the service. The new design also includes the traditional Canton logo. It has been about 12 years (1987) since the fire patch was re-designed.

While several firefighters had input into the new design, Sgt. Dennis Draplin originated the basic design. The finished product, in the form of a patch, is blue and red, with gold trim.
